What is Regorafenib Tablet?

Regorafenib Tablet is a drug that is used to cure colon and rectal cancer (cancer that starts in the large intestine or the rectum and spreads to other regions of the body) in patients who have failed to respond to prior treatments. It is used to cure gastrointestinal stromal tumours (GISTs; tumours that grow in the stomach, intestine, or oesophagus [tube that connects the throat to the stomach]) in people who haven't responded to conventional treatments.

Regorafenib is also used to cure HCC (a kind of liver cancer) in persons who have previously been treated with

. It belongs to the kinase inhibitor class of drugs.

Regorafenib Tablet - How To Use

- Regorafenib is available as a pill that must be swallowed. It's commonly taken once a day with a low-fat meal for three weeks, then skipped for one week. This treatment time is known as a cycle, and it can be repeated as often as your doctor suggests.

- Every day, use a regorafenib tablet at the same time. Follow the advice on your medication label carefully. Regorafenib should be taken exactly as prescribed. Do not use more or less of it, or take it more frequently than your doctor has suggested.
- Do not break, chew, or crush the tablets; they must be swallowed whole.
- During your medication, your doctor may reduce your regorafenib dose or tell you to stop taking it for a period of time. This will be determined by how effectively the medication functions for you and any potential negative effects. Even if you feel fine, keep taking the regorafenib tablet. Do not discontinue taking regorafenib without first consulting your specialist.
- Regorafenib tablet isn't sold at regular pharmacies. A specialised logistic service will mail your medication to you or your doctor.

How It works

Regorafenib tablet is a cancer-fighting drug. It works by preventing the aberrant protein from causing cancer cells to grow. This assists in the prevention or slowing of cancer cell spread.

Precautions for Regorafenib Tablet

Before taking Regorafenib

- If you have an allergy to regorafenib, any other medicines, or any of the components in regorafenib tablets, notify your doctor.
- Tell your doctor about any additional prescription or over-the-counter medications, vitamins, or nutraceuticals you're taking or plan to use. Make a point of mentioning one or more of the following: Certain antifungal medications such as

ketoconazole

, and voriconazole; certain seizure medications such as carbamazepine, phenobarbital

; clarithromycin; fluvastatin; rifampin; or telithromycin. Your specialist may need to adjust your prescription dosages or keep a close eye on you for side effects.

- While using a regorafenib tablet, tell your doctor about any herbal products you're using.
- If you have an unhealed wound, or if you have or have ever had bleeding issues, high blood pressure, chest pain, or heart, kidney, or liver disease, notify your doctor. Also, let your doctor know if you've undergone surgery recently.
- If you're breastfeeding, let your doctor know. You should not breastfeed while taking a regorafenib tablet and for up to 2 weeks after finishing your therapy.
- Tell your doctor that you are using regorafenib if you are having surgery, especially dental surgery. Regorafenib tablet should be stopped at least two weeks before surgery.

Regorafenib Tablet - Side Effects

- Diarrhoea, mouth/throat pain/sores, changes in taste, dry mouth, lack of appetite, hair loss, voice changes, weight loss, and muscle stiffness are all possible side effects. Tell your doctor right away if any of these side effects persist or worsen.
- You were provided with this prescription because your doctor determined that the advantage to you exceeds the danger of side effects. Your risk can be reduced if your doctor keeps a close eye on you.
- This drug has the potential to elevate your blood pressure. Regularly monitor the blood pressure and notify your doctor if the readings are too high. Your doctor may prescribe medication to help you manage your blood pressure.
- This medicine has the potential to cause severe bleeding. If you experience any indicators of serious bleeding, such as easy bleeding, severe stomach/abdominal discomfort, bloody or coffee-ground vomit, black stool, abnormal vaginal bleeding, pink/bloody urine, or spitting up blood, call your doctor straight away.

- This medicine rarely causes a severe allergic reaction. However, if you detect any symptoms of a major allergic response seek medical attention right once.
- Regorafenib can cause a minor rash that is usually not life-threatening. If you get a rash, seek medical attention straight once.

Some Tips for Regorafenib Tablet
